

PRIVACY POLICY

Update: 07/06/2019

The privacy policy presented below relates to the www.avioner.pl website, hereinafter referred to as "the service" or the AVIONER Training Center, and constitutes an attachment to the Regulations of the subject website.

The administrator of Users' personal data (hereinafter referred to as the Service Provider) is:

Syntecode Sp. z o.o.
ul. Pilchowicka 27
02-175 Warsaw

Personal data and other information provided by the user. When creating an account, the following information is required:

- name and surname,
- e-mail address,
- account name (login),
- individual access password.

While using the www.avioner.pl website, the Participant's computer will save cookies (cookies) necessary to maintain the session on the site, store the Participant's preferences, better match the services to his needs, collect responsibility statistics and better match ads.

If you do not agree to the cookies placed on your computer by www.avioner.pl, you can modify the settings of your web browser accordingly. However, blocking cookies completely will prevent you from logging in to the site. If you do not change your browser settings, you agree to the installation of cookies on your device in accordance with this Privacy Policy.

When using the www.avioner.pl website, each time a page is displayed or one of the files placed on our servers is downloaded, the following information is saved:

- date and time of sending the request,
- URL of the visited website with attached parameters,
- the IP address of the computer making the request,
- content and status of the request,
- amount of data sent in response,
- HTTP headers sent by the user's computer (defining, among others, the type and version of the browser, the language set, the page from which the redirection occurred, the content of cookies).
- content sent by the user

In order to optimize the learning process, the system collects detailed data on the progress of learning on the website, including information about the lectures and tests undergoing.

The data collected by us enable us to provide services within the www.avioner.pl website and also help in:

1. handling payments and order processing (including sending registration notifications and purchasing trainings),
2. optimizing the learning process based on anonymous statistical data on the progress of learning platform users and the history of browsing the site,
3. developing the school's website and introducing new functionalities,
4. for statistical purposes (for example to test website visits statistics),
5. ensuring security (ie to detect any security breaches or unauthorized use of the website),
6. detection of problems related to the operation of the website (errors in the software),
7. sending commercial information, including promotional offers (consent to send this information is not required to use our services and can be withdrawn at any time on the account settings page or via a link attached to the commercial information sent enabling subscription cancellation) .
8. sharing data with our Partners, offering practical training in the air.

Your personal data will not be shared without your consent by third parties, except as described below or required by applicable law and the implementation of the training offered.

By registering in the service, you agree to share your login / email with lecturers whose lectures you will review on www.avioner.pl and Partners cooperating and offering practical training in the air.

Anonymous statistical summaries prepared on the basis of server log analysis, history of science, history of browsing the site can be made available to third parties. However, statements will never contain data to identify individuals.

All servers servicing the www.avioner.pl website are located in the European Union. The service provider does not have its own servers, uses external providers of hosting services that provide a high degree of security. Every day at night, we back up the school's service database.

The AVIONER training center does not store any financial data of the training participants, because the purchase transactions are carried out in the form of a transfer only on the external servers of the Service Providers.

Please note that although we strive to ensure the security of your data, we can not guarantee 100% protection against hacker attacks or computer viruses. In the event that there is a breach of security of the site as a result of a hacking attack, causing modification or corruption of data, we will notify the competent law enforcement authorities of any violations.

You have the right to inspect and correct the data you provide. Most of the personal data associated with the account can be viewed or modified after logging in to the site on your Training Participant profile. For security reasons, the website www.avioner.pl may also store historical versions of data provided by the user (for example, to enable the original account holder to be identified if the account was taken over without his consent).

You can request removal of your account and your personal data held by us at any time. Such a request must be sent in writing - by e-mail (from the e-mail address to which the account was created) or by post. The message should contain the name of the account used at www.avioner.pl, name and address of the traditional user's email address and e-mail address assigned to the account. In order to authorize a request to delete data, our employee may also request additional information to confirm the identity of the person making the request.

We reserve the right to make changes to this privacy policy in accordance with applicable legal regulations.